

Lo-fi prototypes feedback:

General app layout is simple and they had no problem understanding and navigating between tabs and pages.

Font size is too small.

In Simulasave, they didn't understand the "I can save x €." I had to say that it was every month (like it showed in the option below). They also didn't understand the clock button. I think the simulation could present a value in real time.

In Vaults, they were searching for the option of the money goal. In our case, they wanted to save 2000€ to buy a car.

In the Investment tab, they wanted to have info on the loans and programs right in the buttons, and not being taken to an external website. They also didn't know the purpose of the chatbot button. I had to tell them it was to ask it questions about investment. They also didn't understand Trends. Trends of what?

In the Manage tab, they couldn't navigate from the first page to the second page. They also didn't understand the "Every: month" part of the limits. They asked: If it is monthly limits, why do you need "every month"? The bar graph also was a bit confusing. A simple progress bar would maybe be more appropriate.
